FYI, the new South Portland Middle School opens this week. The building is designed for 900 students (grades 5 through 8), 176,000 square feet and cost approximately $69 million ($59 million state funding and $10 million local share). The project has a rooftop photovoltaic (PV) system and geothermal heat pump system. I've added an informative slide show and Maine DoE Concept Approval Budget to a new resource on the CESBAC micro-website (thank you Cindy for this addition):
