Hi Larry,

It was great catching up with you last week. I have attached a typical score card that I developed for my Project Managers to use when choosing Owner's Representatives, Engineering firms, Contractors and the purchase of expensive equipment. The one attached is for equipment purchases . It is pretty sophisticated with its categories, questions, hyperlinks and the scoring of each. It really drills down in helping you choose the right company or product for your project. I would recommend that we use one similar to this in the future for the award of our phase two Owner's Rep. contractors and expensive material purchases
