Hi,
I heard one great idea during the last vote on the schools: spread out the costs over a few or more years. Is this something we even can do? Please investigate this as a possibility. Something as predictable as new schools should be anticipated for 10 years, and by keeping a school capital account, there wouldn't be a large increase of taxes all of a sudden. I would suggest starting at 1-3% of the annual budget.

Thanks
Steev
