Hi all-

Our household received the paper survey this morning. It appears that perhaps the response set that I referenced in my previous email wasn't randomized, but is just...random. Because the paper copy I received has them in the same order - C, E, B. Which is still problematic for the reasons I stated previously. And now there's another reason - the insert shows them in the order E, C, B. So the order choices aren't alphabetical, aren't in order of magnitude (smallest to largest investment), and aren't even in the same order as the insert that came with the survey. Use caution.

Gretchen
